

Frequently Asked Questions

1. What is ReFED?

ReFED is a nonprofit with a holistic view of the food system, working to advance solutions to reduce food waste. Since its inception in 2015, ReFED has served as a trusted source for data and insights, a connector of stakeholders across the food system, and a catalyst for innovation and economic opportunity.

2. Why is ReFED launching a COVID-19 Food Waste Solution Fund?

In response to the impacts of COVID-19 on our food system — especially the increase in wasted food and the growing number of people facing food insecurity — ReFED is leveraging our expertise and extensive network along all stages of the food supply chain. To help prepare for the coming months, ReFED launched The COVID-19 Food Waste Solutions Fund to quickly raise and deliver funds to organizations that can rapidly scale their impact.

3. Who is eligible to apply?

ReFED is looking for organizations that:

- Are applying on behalf of a social enterprise, benefit corporation, for-profit company, public-private partnership, 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, or fiscally-sponsored project headquartered and operating in the U.S.
- Support the mission of ReFED's COVID-19 Food Waste Solution Fund - helping prevent and rescue at least 250 tons or 417,000 meals of otherwise wasted food over the next 90 days
- Have an annual revenue or operating budget of approximately $500,000 or more

4. How can I prepare for the application process?

Prospective grantees can download a PDF of the full application here.

5. What evaluation criteria will be used to review my application?

- Focus Area: The solution aligns with at least one of the primary focus areas of the ReFED COVID-19 Food Waste Solution Fund

ReFED

Rethink Food Waste
Through Economics and Data

- Food Waste Impact: The solution can prevent and/or reduce a significant amount of food from being wasted in the next 90 days (and hopefully beyond)
- Social Impact: The solution meets the growing and dire needs of populations most heavily impacted by COVID-19, including, but not limited to particular cities and states, the elderly, and workers in agriculture, hospitality, and healthcare industries
- Scalability: Extraordinary vision to drive reach and scale in a sustainable way
- Team: Well-positioned with relevant experience, expertise, and partners to succeed in meeting desired outcomes during the COVID-19 crisis

6. Can I speak to someone directly about the COVID-19 Food Waste Solutions Fund?

If you have any questions related to the COVID-19 Food Waste Solutions Fund, please email COVID-19solutionsfund@ReFED.com.

7. How can I contribute to the Fund?

Make your donation through one of these methods:

- By credit card or PayPal: Please go to ReFED's GoFundMe campaign.
- By check: Please make checks payable to ReFED, Inc. and mail to 27-01 Queens Plaza N, 13th Floor, Long Island City, 11101

If you have questions about donating or want to learn more, please email Alexandria Coari at alexandria.coari@refed.com.

8. If my application is not selected, how can I stay up to date on future funding opportunities?

If you have not already, join the ReFED Food Waste Innovator Database - a useful tool for solution providers to stay up-to-date on future funding and capacity building opportunities.